Lynch Law in Lebanon.

THREE MEN HUNG.

PARTICULARS OF THE AFFAIR.

LEBANON, Ky., Nov. 26, 1866.
At exactly 11:45 p.m. on Saturday Nov. 24th a number of men, armed with guns and pistols, surrounded the county jail, which is situated directly in the center of Lebanon, broke open the front door and entered the jail the key to the dungeon part of the jail. The mob which appeared to be under the control of one leader, made no noise, pistolled the streets, and arrested all citizens whom they found on the streets. These persons were taken to Main Street, and who were curious enough to open their windows, were warned to keep their heads in, a warning that was quickly complied with. Eighteen men, armed with guns, raised a large hoghead up to the northwest corner of Main and 13 public streets, behind which they hid themselves, apparently ready to fire on any man who made an effort to go to the jail. The other corners of these streets were guarded by armed men. Every precaution was taken by the mob to prevent assistance reaching the jail.

When the front door of the jail was broken open the jailer ran up stairs and hid himself. When he was missioner and attempted to break down the iron door of the jail. After hammering at it for a time they found this mode of entrance impracticable, and commenced searching for the jailer.
Doors were broken open, and he was finally found hid in a wardrobe in a room in the top stairs of the jail. He was immediately seized, compelled to deliver up the keys, and held in custody.

In the meantime the prisoners eight in number, were fully awakened by the hammering at the jail door, and fully understood the danger that menaced them. They shrieked and yelled for help, and armed themselves with billets of wood and stones, determined to sell their lives as dearly as possible.

When the mob obtained the keys of the jail door, they opened it, as they did the inner lattice iron door which led into the dungeon. Wm. Goode had armed himself with a huge billet of wood and hid behind the door, ready to strike as the mob entered. After some parleying in the passage five men marched into the dungeon, meeting with no opposition. They formed a line by the wall of the jail and called for Clem. Crowder, Wm. Goode and Tom Stephens, who immediately answered to their names. As they delivered themselves up, the leader of the men said, "Crowder, I have been looking for you for a long time." To this speech Crowder answered: "I know you have, Mr. —" calling the man by name. The three prisoners were immediately marched from jail, the jail door securely fastened, and the jailer released. The mob, which was on foot, immediately left the city in the direction of Grimes' Hill, a small hill situated about one and a half miles east of Lebanon. Their horses were hitched and guarded in the edge of the city. When they left the jail they gave one triumphant yell, which awoke a large number of our citizens, and must have struck terror to the hearts of the prisoners. Many citizens saw them as they marched out toward Grimes' Hill, and say that there must have been about seventy-five men guarding the prisoners, in addition to the men who guarded the streets who numbered about seventy-five, more.
The mob left Lebanon at 12:30 A. M., on Sunday 25th inst.

What took place at Grimes' Hill prior to the hanging no one, except those engaged, knows. A negro living near the place says that the mob talked to the prisoners a long time, laughed frequently and appeared to act in a business-like manner. It is not known whether the prisoners begged for their lives or not. No one can tell how they suffered from fright, nor how they suffered while hanging.

Grimes' Hill is a small hill one and a half miles east of Lebanon, and is studded thickly with the trees. The Danville turnpike runs directly over it, and the Knoxville railroad cuts through it. Lebanon cannot be seen from the hill, but the summit of the hill is sufficiently elevated to give a good view of the country, for several miles around.

The place of hanging is directly on the top of the hill, equally distant from the turnpike and the railroad—about one hundred yards from each.— The tree to which they were hung is a black oak, with one large limb, extending in a northerly direction, which is about twelve feet from the ground.
Appearances indicate that the prisoners were hung one at a time, commencing with Crowder. He must have been placed on a horse, his hands tied behind him, the rope adjusted around his neck and the horse led from under him. Appearances also indicate, that the rope slipped, for his heels nearly touched a root of the tree that ran out under his feet. Indeed he must have struggled to get a foot-hold on this root. His declination only prevented his saving his life by doing this.

Imagine a man dangling at the end of a rope with his hands securely bound behind him, just able to touch the ground, and yet not able to release himself from the suffocating horrors and pains of death! Wm. Goode seems next to have been called on. The rope around his neck slipped so much that he stood on his feet. His legs were doubled up and his feet tied to his hands. His knees then were not more than six inches from the ground.
Thomas Stephens was next hung. It appears that the first rope placed around his neck was broken, for three ropes were around his neck the following morning. His feet were about six inches from the ground.

The limb on which they were hung was about seven feet long, so that Stephens and Crowder were within a few feet of each other. They must have suffered intolerable pain, since they all died of strangulation. Crowder's face was hid by a handkerchief. When it was removed, his mouth was found to be open, and the rope with which he was hung imbedded in his neck. Wm.
Goode had quite a piteous expression; he and Stephens both appeared to have attempted to prevent suffocation by holding their chins firmly down on their breasts. Stephens looked as well as when I last saw him in our court house, when he was being tried for bigamy, &c. After the death of the prisoners their hats were carefully placed on their heads. They looked so much like men standing on the ground, attempting to hide themselves behind the tree, that an old negro man who passed them in the morning spoke to them, and hurried on town very much frightened because they would not reply. After the hanging the mob joined in one last shout, and then left for parts unknown.

The following is the concluding portion of the report of the officer commanding the post:
The men hung were notorious scoundrels and the fact of their having been hung is a great relief to the people of the surrounding country, as they have committed every act in the calendar of crime.

I have no doubt, that had I been called upon by the civil authorities during the attack upon the jail, I should have had a serious fight, as a majority of the men were armed with double-barreled guns and with revolvers, and were determined to take these men at all hazards. Considerable excitement prevailed in the morning, when the news of the hanging was circulated, but not a citizen said a word in opposition to the action of the mob, but exulted over and sustained it.

Very respectfully, your servant,
J. R. KING,
Second Lieutenant United States
Infantry, commanding detachment.

JAMES W. TATE, Esq.—A correspondent writing over the signature of "Green River" to the Louisville Courier, suggests the gentleman whose name heads this article as a suitable candidate of the Democracy at the next election for Treasurer of the State. From a life-long acquaintance with Mr. Tate, we can safely say that we know of no one in the confines of the State that would make a more efficient, prompt and faithful public servant, and the State in honoring him would honor itself. Among other public offices he has held that of Assistant Secretary of State for many years and so well did he discharge the duties of that position that Governor Robinson when assuming the Gubernatorial chair after the resignation of Governor Magoffin, continued him therein, although belonging to a different political party.—Owensboro Monitor.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—The wife of Capt. A. J. M. Brown, late of the 2d Kentucky Infantry, entered suit for a divorce to-day on the ground of adultery. The statement is that while the captain was in service in West Virginia a young woman, named Lizzie remained and slept in his tent for a month or six weeks; that she was sometimes called a cock but did not cook. She remained with him until his wife arrived in Virginia, when a row took place in camp, and Lizzie retreated in good order.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Emperor Napoleon has telegraphed to his aides in Mexico to hasten the evacuation of the French troops from that country.

Pen and Scissors.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The President makes no secret of many of the important points in his message. It will be conciliatory in tone and will throw upon Congress, the responsibility of completing the work of restoring the Union by admitting the southern delegates to their seats. He takes the ground that the Union is already restored so far as it can be effected by executive authority.

The President proposes some additional constitutional amendments, providing for the election of President of the United States and senators by the direct votes of the people, without the agency of the electoral college and the State Legislatures.

THE VIRGINIA AND KENTUCKY RAIL-ROAD.—The Bristol Gazette contains an account of a large and spirited public meeting, held at Estillville, Scott county, on the 13th inst., at which resolutions were passed warmly advocating the Covington Gap railroad, and pledging the county's assistance. Mr. Ira Fugate presided, and Col. R. W. Hughes delivered a long address. President Hughes is pushing this project with tireless energy and signal ability. He will get it through if labor can do it.—Lynchburg Republican.

Postmaster General Randall has finally agreed upon a postal treaty with Great Britain whereby postage to and from is to be reduced to twelve cents, to be prepaid. The postage is to be collected and kept by the government where the letter is mailed, and each side is to keep what it gets.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—By arrival via Havana, we have news of another revolutionary movement in Venezuela.
In October a revolutionary movement occurred in Barcelona, and the State government was overthrown. The leaders of this movement were Domingo Monagas and Nicomir Bolet, Penza, who arrested Gov. Carvajal and formed a provisional government, but the latter, through the efforts of his partisans regained his liberty and resumed his functions.

According to the latest accounts an obstinate battle occurred in the neighborhood of the capital, between the forces of Monagas and Carvajal. The carriage was very great. The number of killed and wounded of Carvajal's men, was large, owing to the artillery of Monagas.

The government sent out some commissioners to pacify the combatants.

MADRID, Nov. 27.—It is stated in official quarters that an early peace will be satisfactorily arranged between the Spanish government and the allied governments of Chile and Peru.

APPOINTMENT.—John D. McLaughlin, of Covington, has been appointed deputy United States marshal for eastern and central Kentucky.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—It is announced that the illness of the Empress Carlotta has assumed a serious aspect, and fears are entertained that it will soon prove fatal.

The government has received information from Italy stating that the pope has resolved not to leave Rome, but will trust to the protection of the King, Victor Emmanuel.

Horace Greeley defines his position at length in the Tribune. We quote one paragraph:
I am for universal amnesty so far as immunity from fear of punishment or confiscation is concerned, even though impartial suffrage should for the present be resisted and defeated. I did think it desirable that Jefferson Davis should be arraigned and tried for treason; and it still seems to me that this might properly have been done many months ago, but it was not done then, and now I believe it would result in far more evil than good. It would rekindle passions that have nearly burned out or been hushed to sleep.
It would convulse and agitate the South. It would arrest the progress of reconciliation and kindly feeling there. It would cost a large sum directly, and a far larger indirectly; and unless a jury were scandalously packed it would result in a non-agreement or no verdict. I can imagine no good end to be subserved by such a trial; and holding Davis, neither better nor worse than a thousand others, would have treated him as they are.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 27.—Hon. Cave Johnson, President Polk's postmaster general, died at noon Friday, at his residence at Clarksville, Tenn., aged seventy-five years. He served fourteen years in Congress, acquiring a national reputation; was four years president of the bank of Tennessee,

SALVISA, Ky., Nov. 29th, 1866.
Editor Cynthiana News:
As the proximity of the State Convention suggests the names of distinguished gentlemen for the various State positions, we would respectfully urge the claims of Col. Frank Leathers, of Anderson county, for the office of State Treasurer. Col. Leathers is in every respect a high gentleman, and well and widely known to the people of Kentucky, having served with conspicuous distinction in the Legislature. He was a bold and fearless contributor to the Lost Cause, and when the armies were surrendered, gave up his shield untarnished.— He has been repeatedly presented to the people of his district for Congress, but his modesty and generosity always prompted him to yield in favor of others of less merit and distinction.

VALE.

CURIOUS BEHAVIOR OF A PORTLAND GIRL.—A beautiful young lady of Portland ("exposed") in a letter to the Boston Herald, frequently, during the past year, has been in the habit of getting herself up as an aged man, and coming to town on the cars. In her disguise she would stroll about the city to her heart's content, and return home to tell the few friends in the secret of the fun she had enjoyed. If spoken to, she feigned deafness. The venerable form had become quite familiar in the streets of Portland; but none dreamed that beneath those gray hairs nestled soft auburn ringlets; that beneath those green goggles sparkled a pair of roguish eyes. But the romantic young heroine came to grief.
Protracting her strolls too long the other day, the train was leaving the station just as she limped into the depot. A smart run enabled the foolish girl to throw herself upon the rear platform, but just as she did so, away went hat, wig, and goggles. Two gentlemen on the rear platform were considerably astonished, but the young lady had sufficient presence of mind to explain in a few frightened sentences the position of affairs, and it being nightfall, the gentlemen, who proved to be the genuine article, got the girl to her home without further publicity.

TERRIBLE HURRICANE.
New York, Nov. 24.—The effects of a late hurricane in the Bahama islands are set forth by the governor in his speech to the legislature. He says:
"I have lost no time in calculating and making public correct information as to the ravages of the storm on this island. Suffice it to say that upwards of six hundred dwellings have been destroyed, and an equal number injured; that scarcely a public building has escaped injury; that many places of worship and school-houses have been blown down, and all have been damaged; that a majority of the principal warehouses and stores in this city have been blown down and severely injured; that of two hundred and forty-two vessels and boats, which floated in the harbor on the morning of the 1st of October, all but one had sunk or been driven ashore before the next day had dawned, and that one hundred and eighty-nine of them have been broken up or greatly injured; that the standing crops of provisions and fruits have been destroyed, the orchards partially rooted and the fields and gardens to a great degree laid bare. These islands generally exhibit a similar aspect."

The sum of $75,000 was voted by the legislature, to repair damages, and the work of restoration is progressing rapidly.

Office in Cousin's Block, Cynthiana, Ky.
October 4th 1866-17

A. J. MOREY, EDITOR.

The news from Washington is startling and revolutionary in every aspect. The radical reconstructionists of Congress seem to act and feel as if something should be done, and that quickly; but they do not know and cannot agree among themselves as to the particular points of that "something," and it is hoped they never will for our good and theirs too. They have met in caucus and commenced their blabbering and blustering. It is said that they have abandoned the impeachment proposition and had no notion of such an act, simply because there were too many sensible men in congress to be guilty of such a foolish and treasonable act. We predict that in less than one year the Jacobins will be repudiated by the republican party, and that constitutional conservatism will rule its action. Very many of the leaders of that great northern party are disgusted with such fellows as Thad. Stevens, and will, in time return him to the bosom of his family and the private walks of life, but it is necessary that such men should wear themselves out with the people. Since the President has determined not to abandon his notions on reconstruction, the people may rest easy, at least as long as he is the Executive and stands firm by his principles.

The Radicals in caucus at Washington, propose to abolish the State governments at the South, as organized at present, on the ground that they are unconstitutional, and will appoint a commissioner for each State who shall have power to appoint the civil and military officers necessary for the promotion of peace and good order.

These commissioners will be authorized to call conventions for the purpose of forming constitutions, &c.; but the caucuses have got into a squabble as to who should do the voting—and there is the rub—the niggers or who. If the whites vote their constitutions will not be changed—if the niggers, they will have no assurance of a constitution of any kind.

The Thirty-ninth Congress met in Washington last Monday, and the President's message was read and ordered to be printed. The message is an able document in defense of the policy of restoration heretofore advocated by the President. The tone of the message is somewhat apologetic than otherwise, and the President seems to regret that the Constitution compels him to pursue the policy he started out with. He desires to conciliate his enemies, for the purpose of saving himself from an open collision with them, hoping doubtless, that their patriotism will lead them to the right. We believe he has abandoned all determined purposes to gain for the South a representation in the Houses. He is continuing only in a passive adherence to his former policy.

The Foreign policy of the government is in a desperate condition, and war with France and England is inevitable. We believe the differences between them could be settled easily, but the people of the North are mad yet, and are anxious for another fight. The fighting portion desire war for the purpose of satisfying their thirst for blood and revenge—the policy portion, believe, and we think correctly, too, that a foreign war would conciliate the North and South.

It is not known that the President favors a foreign war. The softened tone of his message indicates, however, a suspicion to that effect.

On Saturday night last Mr. Davis, one of the proprietors of the Maysville Eagle, became involved in a difficulty with Newell, one of its employees, which resulted in Newell firing from the door at Davis while he was sitting in the McKrell House. Mr. Davis, upon going to the door, fired two shots at Newell as he was disappearing. No one was hurt. At an examination Davis was acquitted and Newell was bound over.

Judge Advocate General Holt has been denied a court of enquiry into the charges against him regarding the prosecution of the Lincoln assassins, the President deeming it unnecessary to his vindication.

IMPORTANT SALE OF TOWN LOTS.—At the last term of the Harrison Circuit court, a judgment was rendered in the case of C. Walton, Trustee, vs Wm. Snodgrass and others, directing the commissioner, M. L. Broadwell to sell the vacant lot on the South side of Pike street in this city. This lot is on the second if not the first great thoroughfare of the city; is about equal distant from the railroad and Main St., and the public square. It fronts on Pike street 210 feet and runs back 140 feet. It will be sold in lots to suit purchasers, ranging in size from 20 to 50 feet front. No more desirable lots are to be had in the city, in fact there are none in the city half so desirable for persons who may wish to combine business houses and dwelling. We would advise all who wish to invest in town property, or who want a good lot and a good stand for business to be on hand at the sale. The sale will take place at the Court House door on next Monday at 11 o'clock A. M.

A SELMA HOUSE.—We copy from the Selma Ala., "Daily Times" the following editorial notice of a firm whose advertisement may be found in the News. Any of our people having business or seeking business or trade in that region, cannot do better than apply to Rosser & Morey, who, having been gallant soldiers, are now as energetic and faithful in their commercial transactions as they were in their relations to the "lost cause."

A BUSY HOUSE.—Notwithstanding the fact that Messrs. Rosser & Morey are constantly filling orders and making heavy shipments, they manage to keep at all times, a store filled with a complete assortment of groceries. They keep everything in their line of business, and have never been known to have any but the very best. Retail dealers, heads of families, planters, and all others, can be fitted out by them at any time. Bacon, Coffee, Sugar, Flour of all brands, Butter, Lard, Tobacco, and a thousand and one other things can be found there.

P. O. B. Duke, the outlaw from Mt. Sterling, was arrested recently in Maysville by Col. True, and has been sent to General Davis, at Louisville, who has delivered him to the civil authorities.

A gentleman from Mt. Sterling who visited our office yesterday, asserts that Duke is not a cousin of General Basil Duke.

The Methodist Brethren of this County are making an effort to raise money to build a new and elegant Church in Cynthiana. We were shown one paper which had been in circulation but a few hours, with two hundred dollars subscribed. We hope the effort may prove a success.

J. H. Carter, at the Post office, is paying the highest price for all kinds of Furs.

John C. Breckinridge is petitioning for pardon, and claims that the general terms of surrender awarded to Lee and Johnson included him.

From the Hawesville Messenger. Who will be the Democratic candidate for Governor of Kentucky in 1867?

This question is frequently asked by the people and pretty freely discussed by the friends of different gentlemen who are supposed to be indicated by public sentiment as likely to be candidates for the office.

We have received numerous letters urging the claims of their friends for the nomination; but have carefully avoided indicating any preference amongst them. We really have none at all between those spoken of in connection with the office. We could not make a bad selection amongst them; yet, without becoming the advocate of his claims, we may simply state the fact that a large majority of those with whom we have interchanged sentiments have indicated Governor Helm, of Hardin county, as their preference.

We are not astonished at this. Gov. Helm is one of the best specimens of an old fashioned Kentucky gentleman, now occupying a public position in the State, and yet he is fully up with the spirit and progress of the age.

He has always been the friend and patron of the various public improvements in the country.

He is a sound statesman and a man of firmness and decision of character.

Kentucky is nearly the only purely Democratic State in the Union, and she ought to have a representative man for Governor. Whether Gov. Helm will fill the demand or not, we cheerfully leave to the judgment of the Convention when it shall meet. We may add that our intercourse with the people of Southwest Kentucky has led us to think he is the favorite of that part of Kentucky.

If made Governor, we think no Kentuckian will have occasion to blush for their Chief Magistrate.

Fen and Scissors.

The Democratic party in Kentucky must remember that the great, supreme object to be attained now is the restoration of the Southern States to all the rights and privileges of the other States; and that the only "hope of redeeming the Federal Government is by State action." As in the past, so now, we must obtain possession of the States before we can hope for anything from the General Government.—Lexington Observer and Reporter.

A Colorado paper says that recently some miners were working at the bottom of a shaft in Calaveras, Cal., when one of them unclosed with his pick an orifice through which flames might be distinctly seen. Turning around and throwing down his pick, he remarked to his chums, "It's no use to go any further, boys, we've struck hell—!"

REVIVAL.—The Owensboro Shield says that Rev. C. T. Widney, of Owensboro circuit, has been carrying on a protracted meeting at Oakford, Daviess county, for some two weeks, and thirty-eight have made profession of religion; and thirty have joined the Methodist church, others the Cumberland and Baptist churches. The meeting is still progressing.

Boston, Dec. 3.—The Fenian Brotherhood here is numbered by thousands, regularly organized, and having full equipments for infantry, cavalry, and artillery. The discipline they have undergone during the past six months have made them fit for soldiers, and they are steady to go on the war path as soon as the order is ready.

We take the following from the Lexington Gazette:

A MIRACLE OR A MYSTERY.—Every one remembers the miracle at the feast of Cana, where many jars of water were turned into wine for the entertainment of the wedding guests.—Something of this kind has happened recently at Payne's Depot, on the Louisville and Lexington Railroad, only liquor was turned into water. It seems that a distiller had placed 100 barrels of whiskey in the warehouse at that place in storage, when it was inspected and remained several months. Upon a re examination the whiskey was found to have turned into water, all the alcohol having been mysteriously supplanted by the more innocent beverage.—All inquiries have failed to solve the mystery, and we are forced to think it miraculous.

FIRE IN SELMA, ALA.—A destructive fire occurred in Selma, on the night of Sunday, the 25th ult. Every building on the north side of Water street, between Washington and Broad, was burned, and all on the east side of Broad, between Linton's alley and Water street, except the building occupied by Miree & Johnson, Woodruff & Duncan, and the Selma Messenger. The following summary of losses is given by the Messenger: On Bond street, J. S. Keipp, $1,500; Miree & Johnson, —; Judson & Duncan, $60,000; Burdett, Martin & Swan, $125,000; the Government, $4,000; Bowen & Hooper, $12,000; A. L. Haden, $15,000; J. M. Parkman, $20,000; Dr. Prestridge, $5,000.

On Water street, J. J. Thomson, auctioneer, $1,000; Myre Harris, family groceries, $2,000; — Kenton, $2,500; Robert Hall, house, $10,000. The exertions of the military and civil officers of the U. S. Government stationed at Selma, are highly commended, although they were personally uninterested.

HOG MARKETS.—The hog market is quiet and some what dull, owing chiefly to the unfavorable weather. Louisville prices are as follows: Light 5½¢; heavy (200 lbs.) 6¢. Cincinnati quotations are 6½¢ for heavy (200 lbs.) The receipts promise to be large in both Cincinnati and Louisville, but there are so many packers now at work that the demand will be equal to the supply. Several farmers who had intended to ship to New York have determined to sell nearer home, the decline there and advance here making better markets at Cincinnati or Louisville.

Thus far, 23,598 head have been killed in Louisville, and 99,027 in Cincinnati. There are a number of buyers in this city who will pay as high a price as the markets elsewhere will justify.—Lexington Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The House has just repealed the 13th section of the amnesty act authorizing the President to grant pardons, by a vote of 111 to 28. The vote is a fair indication of the tone and strength of parties in the present Congress.

A bill has just been introduced in the House taking from the President all appointments of revenue officers and giving the appointing power to Chief Justice Chase.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 27.—An negro named Sam. Cooper, with other rogues, entered an African church at Hamilton, Ohio, last Sunday night, and commenced railing at the preacher and congregation. A row resulted, during which Cooper was stabbed in the breast and instantly killed.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Our friend D. A. Givens has an extraordinarily large and well assorted stock of dry goods, cloaks, furs, and custom made boots and shoes. He also has a full assortment of gray jeans and stockings, yarns. Mr. Givens is one of our most enterprising and thorough-going merchants, attends strictly to his business, and is always alive to the interests of his customers. You can at all times rely on fair and honorable dealing at his establishment.

Shawhan & Wilhite are erecting a large Stable on Walnut street.

Not a few of our side walks are in a desperate condition. They need the attention of the city council, or "some other man."

Jno. H. Dills, of this county, sold on Monday last, Thirty Berkshire hogs weighing 351 pounds each. They were certainly a fine lot of Hogs.

Congress has passed an act, taking from the President the Pardoning Power. So ends the first lesson.

A large Democratic meeting has been held in Fleming county and appropriate resolutions adopted, with a recommendation of Hon. R. H. Stanton, for Governor. We will publish the proceedings next week.

The Democracy of Campbell county, held a meeting last Monday and appointed delegates to the February State Convention. They recommend John W. Stevenson for Governor.

Joseph Cantril, of Scott county, took to Cincinnati six hundred head of fat hogs, last week, and instead of selling, has gone into the packing business.

The "Jefferson Hotel," of Falmouth, kept by Geo. C. Lightfoot, is one of the best houses in Kentucky. Travellers will find themselves well treated, well fed and lightly charged while sojourning at the Jefferson.

THE MULE MARKET.—Over 1000 head of mules have been sold within the last week, in Bourbon, Fayette, and Harrison counties; three year olds are selling at from $130 to $180 per head; 2 year olds from $80 to $125; colts from thirty to seventy-five dollars.

BOURBON COUNTY COURT-DAY.—The sales of stock made were higher than at any time within the last 60 days. About 500 head of cattle exchanged hands at from four dollars and seventy-five cents to three dollars and fifty cents. 300 mules exchanged hands at high prices.

Falmouth is a thriving little city, with an enterprising and industrious class of citizens, who are among the most peaceful and law-abiding of our State. Dr. Barber has just finished a new dwelling, and several gentlemen have put up new houses during the past season.

The Suspension Bridge at Falmouth, which crosses Main Licking River at that place, was condemned and sold some weeks since. The company have posted the bridge as too dangerous for passing. Mr. Oldham has just launched a ferry-boat, and can accommodate all who desire to cross.

A large amount of hogs are being shipped from this place. We understand that some fifty cars loads per day go down to the Cincinnati market. Cynthiana has presented a very haggish appearance lately, and as yet, we are unable to observe any change.

On Tuesday last hogs were sold for five dollars and forty cents per hundred, in this place. They are now held at five dollars but few sales are made.

During the month of November P. Wherritt, Clerk of County Court issued ten marriage licenses from his office. The freedmen have gone far ahead of all others in the license business—in fact so many that we failed to enumerate them:

Elijah McKinney to Miss Martha Jane Smith.

Simon Schmidt to Miss Mary Strauss.

James T. Howell to Miss Maggy T. Martin.

G. L. Traux to Lucinda Sallars.

Joel H. Yarnal to Nancy S. Manson.

Abram K. Lair to Susan F. Dungan.

On Sunday last two colored people, named Alex. Tumlinson and Ben. Broadwell had a difficulty on Walnut street, and Alex. being more pugnacious than Ben drew a pistol and was about to fire upon him, when Ben caught his arm the cap exploded and the bullet passed into the air. The affray was then brought to a close, and Alex made an appropriation to the city authorities, by and with the advice of the Mayor. Business in the Mayor's office is very brisk, we understand.

Rev. Mr. Deering and Noland have been holding a very interesting revival at the Methodist Church in this city, during the past week. Quite a number of young gentlemen and ladies have taken membership at that church. We understand that the meeting will be continued.

Elder Lard, one among the most eloquent pulpit orators of the Christian Church, commenced preaching in this place on last Sunday.—Large and interesting audiences go to hear him every night. We understand that several have joined that church. We hope he will be instrumental in doing much good.

Jno. R. Robbins, of Falmouth, Pendleton county, is the proprietor of the best drug store in that place, and is doing a thriving business. He is also post master, and in good standing as such.

For the Cynthiana News.
"A PIKE."

What! Does "Claysville" want a pike? It seems to me Mr. Morey that I read in your "valuable paper," some time since, an effusion to that effect.

I resolved then and there that if time, and pressing engagements should permit, I would favor the public with my own sentiments on that important subject. That "remorseless" individual however who is said to wait for no man, gave me not the slightest opportunity to fulfill this laudable intention until this hour—eight o'clock p. m. November 27th 1866; and that same evening to good intentions, would doubtless have rendered me utterly oblivious of the public weal, as connected with turnpikes had I not been roused to the importance of the subject by seeing a travel-worn man, who had in three days accomplished a journey of forty miles. That he had traveled on no labor-saving, time-saving pike, was evident, not only from the length of time occupied, but from his mud-be-spattered coat, and even hat, his boots which seemed made of mud, and his horse, which was of like material. No. It was the good old fashioned unimproved mud road, where hill follows quick upon hill, where huge rocks seem to vie with each other, in their special aptitude for being in the way, and where hills and rocks are rendered more wearisome, and perplexing, by unfailing, all prevailing mud.

"Poor man!" says some ease-loving individual. "Poor!" indeed! Rather say "heroic man," for if our heroism is in proportion to the difficulties we surmount, as people say it is, then is this man a very Herculese. Shall the indomitable courage, and perseverance, which are necessarily promoted by such a road be discouraged and condemned by that accessory to indolence, that enemy to moral courage, a pike? Never. Intelligent men of Harrison, never suffer yourselves to be led into the folly of making another pike. Though you may, in patronizing that ancient institution the "dirt road," be compelled to spend precious time which you would fain employ otherwise, in climbing hills which seem made of huge fragments of rocks, yet will you not, as your hope of speedy traveling diminishes be led to reflect on the fallacy of human hopes, and the necessity of patient perseverance? and is this discipline worth nothing. Will not your heart, even though it be as strong as the road you travel, glow with compassion for your fellow-beings, as you reflect on the faithful plodding which during long years, has worn that channel, fully wide enough for a single horse to pass through, which channel is dignified by the name of road.

What though you do plunge through mud, which seems ready at every moment to engulf both rider and horse in its miery depths? Will not the firm determination which enables you to overcome this obstacle, strengthen your patient soul, to dare yet deeper mud-holes, yet steeper, longer hills?

If your horse should become so deeply sunk in the bottomless mud as to find it impossible to extricate himself will not sympathizing people, if by bawling till you are hoarse, you can make yourself heard, run to your assistance, and prize, and push and pull till the faithful animal is taken out, either dead or alive? Do those people derive no benefit from this opportunity to do good, and from the additional privilege of kindly sticking fence-rails upright in the mud, like pins in a pin-cushion, as a warning to future travelers to go round and seek other mud-holes, in which to struggle, and plunge, and yell, and from which to be hauled?

But though mud-holes and hills are useful in their way, there is another feature belonging to all well-regulated roads, which must not be omitted—the creek—into which as often as we become tired of mud, the road conveniently runs—the creek, for the purpose of following whose beautiful windings, and delighting the traveler with whose melodious murmurings, roads have been known to run miles out of the right direction.

Perhaps some fault-finding individual exclaims against the danger of riding on a creek in frozen weather, or in it, when it is very deep. Pshaw! when it is frozen, your horse usually breaks through and is thus prevented from slipping down and breaking your neck. If it is deep—swim, for it is to be hoped that no one ever attempts to travel such a road, without being able to swim, wade, climb, halloo, jump, slide, to travel without progressing, to seem to go and not advance, to move, yet stand still. It is this which develops the strong and great and good in one's mind; and it is the smooth pike, demanding no exertion, no self-denial, which renders people selfish, cowardly, weak.

Glorious mud road! Along whose tortuous windings, stage-coaches never appear, and buggies are unknown whose difficulties and dangers unite in one common bond of sympathy strangers and friends, rich and poor, humble and proud! Glorious road and lovely creek! Delightful combination of the useful and beautiful. Disturb not their harmonious relations. But if you do build a pike, leave the old road for the benefit of that large class of people who prefer it. Brown.

MONTREAL, Nov. 23.—Experiments were made to day with the Palliser shot and shell and Firth steel shell. One 9 inch Palliser shell, fired at a target 2,000 yards distance, composed of 8 inch armor plates and 1 inch teak backing. The shell went through the iron and teak, setting fire to the latter, causing more destruction at the back of the target than anything heretofore witnessed. Another series of experiments will be made next week.

For what reason does a fisherman blow his horn? For self-fish reasons. What are the features of a cannon? Cannon's mouth, cannonize and cannon-eers.

Why is an author a queer animal? Because his tale comes out of his head.

Girls are like peaches—the nearer they are ripe, the more they blush; and like peach brandy, they are apt to turn a fellow's head.

A gentleman walking with two ladies stopped on a fog-head hoop, which flew up and struck him in the face. "Good gracious!" he exclaimed, "which of you dropped that?"

The Louisville Democrat says: As bad as the Southern people are charged with having treated the negro, they have never sent him to as mean a place as the Massachusetts Legislature.

A lady whose husband has deserted her says: May two hundred thousand nightmares trot quarter-races over his stomach every night. This probably would be a relief to what he has endured.

A wife (anxiously): What did that young lady observe that passed us just now? Husband (with a smile of calm delight): Why, my love, she observed a rather good looking man walking with quite an elderly female—that's all. Alen!

A Hand Shell Baptist preached in Washington lately, and took for his text, "God made man in his own image." He commenced with the quotation, "An honest man is the noblest work of God," then pausing and looking searchingly about the audience, he exclaimed: "But God Almighty has not had a job in this city for nigh on to fifty years!"

Mr. Swinburne in his new book is always talking of scorching kisses. He says of one of his peculiar heroines: "I dare not always touch her, lest the kiss leave my lips charred."

One of his critics suggests that there is a parallel to this in literature, in the case of the well known monkey, who—"Married the baboon's sister, Snatched his lips and then he kissed her—Kissed so hard he made a blister:
She set up a yell."

A well-primed lever of the bottle, who had lost his way, reeled into a tea-total grocery and hiccupped as follows:

"Mr. —, I've kept a—any—thing—good to take—here!"
"Yes," replied the temperance shop keeper, "we keep excellent cold water—the best thing you could have."
"Well, I know it!" was the reply; "there is no—no thing—that's done so much for navigation—as that!"
